

KATHERINE RASMUSSEN

It is my goal to provide enrichment to audiences through humor and drama that is relatable, entertaining, and thought provoking. I strive to become a playwright who shares the joy, laughter, and reflection of life that theater provides. I have had the privilege of performing in community theater over the years, working backstage as a costumer, and writing press reviews. My favorite role was Charmaine Beauregard in Sex Please, We're Sixty, and I most recently had the honor of portraying Mrs. Helen Hubbard in Murder on the Orient Express with the Flat River Players (Fall 2025).

This playwriting endeavor has brought me more joy than I could have ever imagined and I am so thankful for the opportunities to share my stories. Originally from Detroit, I now reside with my husband in a quaint, small town in rural Michigan, with our adult children close by. We are enjoying a peaceful life of gardening, raising chickens, beekeeping, and being grandparents.
